MAJESTIC SANK IN 18 MINUTES

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Constantinople, via Berlin and Amsterdam, May 28.—The British battleship Majestic, which was torpedoed by a German submarine off Gallipoli peninsula yesterday morning, sank in 18 minutes, according to a statement issued by the war office today.

Only one torpedo was fired by the submarine. This struck the Majestic in the stern, tearing a great hole in her hull. The battleship sank rapidly and the loss of life is believed to have been heavy.

The submarine, the same that sank the British battleship Triumph on Tuesday, has again returned to its base.

London, May 28.—Pessimism over the operations at the Dardanelles was increased today by the news of the sinking of the British battleship Majestic by a submarine. Closely following the destruction of the Triumph, the loss of the Majestic has increased the fears that the naval operations at the Dardanelles will be unsuccessful and that the allies will have to send an army of 300,000 men to effect a land victory over the Turks.

The installation of Arthur J. Balfour as head of admiralty in succession to Winston Churchill was immediately followed by the sinking of the Triumph and Majestic. No criticism is directed at Mr. Balfour because the Churchill policy could not have been changed in the few days he has held office, but his friends regret the inauspicious beginning of his administration.

In less than three months the British have lost five battleships at the Dardanelles, the others being the Ocean, Irresistible and Goliath. They have also lost one submarine, the Bouvet and two submarines.

ITALIAN ARMY MOVING ON TRIESTE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Rome, May 28.—The Italian army which is driving toward Trieste has occupied the Austrian port city of Grado, on the Gulf of Trieste, only twenty-five miles from Trieste, it is officially announced in a statement given out by the Italian war office today.

A squadron of Italian aeroplanes that crossed the northern end of the Adriatic Sea, successfully bombarded the Trieste-Nabresina railway on the night of May 26-27, destroying part of the line and seriously crippling troop and supply movements of the Austrians.

Violent artillery duels are in progress among the Alpine mountains on the Tyrol and Trentino boundaries.

The Italian army of occupation between the Judrio and Isonzo rivers is increasing the extent of captured Austrian territory.

Many prisoners have been taken and at some points the inhabitants received the invading Italians with cordial expressions of fraternity.

The official communiqué, which was based upon dispatches from Lieut. Gen. Luigi Cadorna, chief of the general staff, follows:

"An artillery duel is progressing between our fortifications and those of the Austrians along the border of the Tyrol and Trentino, particularly upon the Asiago plateau and at Tonale."

"We have further extended northwards our occupation of Austrian territory above the junction of the Chiave river with Idro Lake and have occupied the mountain zone between the Lakes of Idro and Garda."

"Prominent citizens of Tezze, Slasugana and other communities of the invaded region have presented themselves to the commanders of our armies of invasion expressing their devotion to the Italian cause."

"Alpine troops engaged upon the frontier of Carnia are continuing to progress, making many prisoners."

"On the Friuli frontier we have occupied Grado, where the population received the Italian troops enthusiastically."

"On the night of May 26-27 a flotilla of hydro-aeroplanes bombarded the Trieste-Nabresina railway, destroying some of the line. The flotilla returned safely to its base."

"The Trieste-Nabresina railway line runs along the eastern shore of the Gulf of Trieste. It is at Nabresina that the branch of the railway running to Venice leaves the main line. Grado is the most popular seaside resort between Trieste and the Italian boundary. It has about 5,000 inhabitants and is situated upon a spit of land which affords a fine bathing beach for the many thousands of tourists who annually flock there. The cathedral of Sant' Eufemia dates from the fifth century, but was rebuilt in the sixteenth. In the sixteenth century Christian jewels and medals were of art."

"Signor Bolatti, the Italian ambassador to Germany, arrived from Berlin today and was given an enthusiastic greeting. He was cheered by big crowds as he drove to the foreign office to give a verbal report."

Queen Helena will reside at Florence throughout the war, taking personal charge of the Red Cross nurses. Duchess d'Aosta, wife of a cousin of King Victor Emmanuel, will remain in this city, having charge of the nursing of wounded prisoners."

Five of the biggest hotels in Naples have been requisitioned by the government and are being made over into military hospitals. Fine hotels on the Italian Riviera and on the Sorrentino peninsula have also been taken over for the same purpose."

Refugees arriving from the war zone, declare that the Italian advance toward the Isonzo river was carried out with clocklike precision."

The Austrians planned to make their first strong defensive along the river where heavy artillery had been planted and fortifications erected."

This line has only secondary value, however. The real defensive awaits the Italians further to the east on a prepared front where large bodies of Austrian, Hungarian and German troops have been massed and where stubborn resistance is expected."

The Roman Catholic Order of Jesuits have placed at the disposal of the government many of their colleges which will be converted into hospitals for care of the wounded. From the extensive hospital preparations that are being made all over Italy it is evident that the government expects a long and bloody war."

Leading Brewster Street Farmer.
Former Supervisor John G. Salzman has turned his attention for a while from politics to agriculture and is now engaged in cultivating the finest garden on Brewster street. Mr. Salzman has resided at No. 43 Brewster street for over twenty years and is one of the oldest residents of the street and his garden for years has been the envy of his neighbors. It needs but a word to be a successful politician or an agriculturist and Mr. Salzman is a success in both lines of endeavor."

Rondout Yacht Club.
A regular meeting of the Rondout Yacht Club will be held at the club house on Tuesday evening, June 1, at 8 o'clock. At this time action will be taken upon the resignation of Commodore Terry, and if the same be accepted, the vacancy caused thereby will be filled."

Excursion From Saugerties.
The steamer Messenger will bring an excursion from Saugerties to Kingston Point on Sunday. On Tuesday there will be a moonlight sail on the Messenger from Cemenon to Rondout."

RYNDAM SINKING AFTER COLLISION; PASSENGERS HURT; TAKEN OFF SHIP.

With her 110 passengers, several of whom are injured, and all but forty of her crew transferred to the battleship South Carolina the big Holland-American liner Ryndam, which was in collision with the fruit steamer Joseph J. Cuneo of Nantucket, returned to this port with two compartments flooded and in hourly danger of foundering.

The two ships came together in the darkness and fog that make the Nantucket section of the Atlantic fleet feared by all mariners, and within five minutes "S. O. S." calls were darting through the air.

These were picked up by operators on board the American battleships engaged in manoeuvres off the New England coast, and within fifteen minutes half a dozen war vessels were speeding to the scene.

WORKING HARD FOR PLAYGROUNDS

At the meeting of the Kingston Park and Playground Association held at the office of Mayor Canfield on John street on Thursday evening, the mayor was empowered to take up the matter of securing some land on the Strand from the Newark Lime and Cement Company to be used as a playground. It was also reported at the meeting that considerable progress had been made in filling in the swamp in the rear of North Front street. Committees were also appointed at the meeting.

The meeting was called to order by Admiral Higginson, the president, and he appointed a committee consisting of Professor M. J. Michael, Joseph M. Fowler, D. G. Rose, of the Carl Company, with the object of securing a lease from them for the land in the rear of the store being used for the playground.

After some discussion it was decided that the membership dues in the association shall be fixed at $1 a year, and sustaining memberships $5 and upwards, and the membership committee that was appointed were instructed to get busy and secure as many memberships as possible so as to pay for the construction work now going on in filling in the swamp back of North Front street. Everett Fowler called attention to the fact that $60 would be needed by Saturday to pay off the men at work on the swamp this week and $50 was subscribed by those present and turned over to the treasurer.

LARGE FREIGHT BOAT TORPEDOED

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Liverpool, Eng., May 28.—The British liner Argylshire, a vessel of 10,392 tons and one of the largest freighters afloat was torpedoed and seriously damaged by a German submarine off the Scilly Islands yesterday.

The first news of the attack on the Argylshire received here was to the effect that she was sending out wireless "S. O. S." calls for help and was sinking, but her agents for the Scottish Shire line, which owns the liner, announced that she had succeeded in reaching port.

The agents further stated that the Argylshire had just been taken over by the admiralty for naval service when she was torpedoed.

The theory was advanced that a bomb dropped by one of the Zeppelins which raided the English coast east of London Wednesday night was responsible for the destruction of the liner which had been taken over by the admiralty, but this was refuted in official circles where it was pointed out that the explosion on the Princess Irene did not occur for several hours after the Zeppelins had been put to flight.

The belief at the admiralty seemed to be that careless handling of ammunition being placed in the hold of the liner was responsible for the disaster. Similar carelessness caused the destruction of the battleship Bulwark in Sheerness harbor in November.

Wreckage of the Canadian Pacific liner was being washed ashore today but there were few bodies among the debris, this indicating that most of the victims were carried down with the vessel.

The submarine, the same that sank the British battleship Triumph on Tuesday, has again returned to its base.

London, May 28.—Pessimism over the operations at the Dardanelles was increased today by the news of the sinking of the British battleship Majestic by a submarine. Closely following the destruction of the Triumph, the loss of the Majestic has increased the fears that the naval operations at the Dardanelles will be unsuccessful and that the allies will have to send an army of 200,000 men to effect a land victory over the Turks.

The installation of Arthur J. Balfour as head of admiralty in succession to Winston Churchill was immediately followed by the sinking of the Majestic. No criticism is directed at Mr. Balfour because the Churchill policy could not have been changed in the few days he has held office, but his friends regret the inauspicious beginning of his administration.

In less than three months the British have lost five battleships at the Dardanelles, the others being the Ocean, Irresistible and Goliath. They have also lost two submarines, the Bouvet and two submarines.

British Steamer Loaded With Wood Destroyed by Germans.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, May 28.—The British steamer Cadeby has been torpedoed off Wolf Light by a German submarine. The Cadeby, a steamer of 1,120 tons, was bound from Oporto, Portugal, to Cardiff, Wales.

The Cadeby was attacked near the Solli Islands, the waters about which have been a favorite hunting ground of the German submarine.

The crew of eighteen men, four passengers and a stowaway discovered soon after the steamer left Oporto, took to the boats when the Cadeby was sunk and was later picked up by a fishing craft, which landed them at Newlyn, on the Cornwall coast today.

The Cadeby carried a cargo of wood. She was owned by the Cadeby Steamship Company, Ltd., of Hull. She was built in 1892 at Sunderland.

Bronx Wants New State.

Citizens of Bronx county have formed an association to effect the secession of 14 counties from New York State and set up another commonwealth to be known as Manhattan State. A map of the new state as planned by the projectors of the scheme takes in all of Long Island, including Suffolk, Nassau and Queens counties; all of Greater New York, comprising Kings, Richmond, New York and Bronx counties; and seven other counties to the north. The last group embraces Westchester, Rockland, Putnam, Orange, Dutchess, Ulster and Sullivan counties. The population of the 14 counties mentioned was 6,050,863 in 1910. In the other 48 counties of New York State the population in 1910 was 3,556,019. The greatest honor is reserved for Bronx county where the idea originated. It is urged that the capital of the "State of Manhattan" be located there.

Sills Makes Dip of Death.

After making an unsuccessful attempt to perform the "Dip of Death" on Wednesday evening at the Odd Fellows' carnival at the Athletic Field, Harry Sills, the Rondout boy, made another attempt on Thursday evening and made a successful descent of the wire on a roller skate. The cold weather on Thursday evening again kept the attendance down, but with warmer weather today and Saturday it is expected that a large number will make it a point to visit the carnival and assist in the building fund of the association. The carnival will close on Saturday evening.

ITALIAN ARMY MOVING ON TRIESTE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Rome, May 28.—The Italian army which is driving toward Trieste has occupied the Austrian port city of Grado, on the Gulf of Trieste, only twenty-five miles from Trieste, it is officially announced in a statement given out by the Italian war office today.

A squadron of Italian aeroplanes that crossed the northern end of the Adriatic Sea, successfully bombarded the Trieste-Nabresina railway on the night of May 26-27, destroying part of the line and seriously crippling troop and supply movements of the Austrians.

Violent artillery duels are in progress among the Alpine mountains on the Tyrol and Trentino boundaries. The Italian army of occupation between the Jodrio and Isongo rivers is increasing the extent of captured Austrian territory.

Many prisoners have been taken and at some points the inhabitants received the invading Italians with cordial expressions of fraternity.

The official communique, which was based upon dispatches from Lieut. Gen. Luigi Cadorna, chief of the general staff, follows:

"An artillery duel is progressing between our fortifications and those of the Austrians along the border of the Tyrol and Trentino, particularly upon the Astago plateau and at Tonale."

"We have further extended northwards our occupation of Austrian territory above the junction of the Cesi river with Idro Lake and have occupied the mountain zone between the Lakes of Idro and Garda."

"Prominent citizens of Tezze, Salsugana and other communities of the invaded region have presented themselves to the commanders of our armies of invasion expressing their devotion to the Italian cause."

"Alpine troops engaged upon the frontier of Carnia are continuing to progress, making many prisoners."

"On the Friuli frontier we have occupied Grado, where the population received the Italian troops enthusiastically."

"On the night of May 26-27 a flotilla of hydro-planes bombarded the Trieste-Nabresina railway, destroying some of the line. The flotilla returned safely to its base."

"(The Trieste-Nabresina railway line runs along the eastern shore of the Gulf of Trieste. It is at Nabresina that the branch of the railway running to Venice leaves, the main line, Grado is the most popular seaside resort between Trieste and the Italian boundary. It has about 5,000 inhabitants and is situated upon a spit of land which affords a fine bathing beach for the many thousands of tourists who annually flock there. The cathedral of Sant' Eufemia dates from the fifth century, but was rebuilt in the sixteenth. In the Sacristy are early Christian jewels and medieval works of art.)"

"Signor Bolatti, the Italian ambassador to Germany, arrived from Berlin today and was given an enthusiastic greeting. He was cheered by big crowds as he drove to the foreign office to give a verbal report."

"Queen Helena will reside at Florence throughout the war, taking personal charge of the Red Cross nurses. Duchess d'Aosta, wife of a cousin of King Victor Emmanuel, will remain in this city, having charge of the nursing of wounded prisoners."

"Five of the biggest hotels in Naples have been requisitioned by the government and are being made over into military hospitals. Fine hotels on the Italian Riviera and on the Sorrentino peninsula have also been taken over for the same purpose."

"Refugees arriving from the war zone, declare that the Italian advance toward the Isongo river was carried out with clocklike precision."

"The Austrians planned to make their first strong defensive along the river where heavy artillery had been planted and fortifications erected."

"This line has only secondary value, however. The real defensive awaits the Italians further to the east on a prepared front where large bodies of Austrian, Hungarian and German troops have been massed and where stubborn resistance is expected."

"The Roman Catholic Order of Jesuits have placed at the disposal of the government many of their colleges which will be converted into hospitals for care of the wounded."

"From the extensive hospital preparations that are being made all over Italy it is evident that the government expects a long and bloody war."

RYNDAM SINKING AFTER COLLISION; PASSENGERS HURT; TAKEN OFF SHIP.

With her 110 passengers, several of whom are injured, and all but forty of her crew transferred to the battleship South Carolina the big Holland-American liner Ryndam, which was in collision with the fruit steamer Joseph J. Cuneo of Nantucket, returned to this port with two compartments flooded and in hourly danger of foundering.

The two ships came together in the darkness and fog that make the Nantucket section of the Atlantic fleet feared by all mariners, and within five minutes "S. O. S." calls were darting through the air. These were picked up by operators on board the American battleships engaged in maneuvers off the New England coast, and within fifteen minutes half a dozen war vessels were speeding to the scene.

At the meeting of the Kingston Park and Playground Association held at the office of Mayor Canfield on John street on Thursday evening, the mayor was empowered to take up the matter of securing some land on the Strand from the Newark Lime & Cement Company to be used as a playground. Rose, of the Carl Company, with the object of securing a lease from them for the land in the rear of the store being used for the playground.

After some discussion it was decided that the membership dues in the association shall be fixed at $1 a year, and sustaining memberships $5 and upwards, and the membership committee that was appointed were instructed to get busy and secure as many memberships as possible so as to pay for the construction work now going on in filling in the swamp back of North Front street. Everett Fowler called attention to the fact that $60 would be needed by Saturday to pay off the men at work on the swamp this week and $50 was subscribed by those present and turned over to the treasurer.

254 LIVES LOST ON PRINCESS IRENE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, May 28.—According to the best figures obtainable today at least 254 men were drowned or killed by the explosion that destroyed the liner Princess Irene yesterday in Sheerness harbor. 249 men on the steamer perished together with five in a launch which was moored alongside the Princess Irene.

Wreckage of the Canadian Pacific liner was being washed ashore today but there were few bodies among the debris, this indicating that most of the victims were carried down with the vessel.

The theory was advanced that a bomb dropped by one of the Zeppelins which raided the English coast east of London Wednesday night was responsible for the destruction of the liner which had been taken over by the admiralty, but this was pointed out that the explosion on the Princess Irene did not occur for several hours after the Zeppelins had been put to flight.

The bodies of the dead were being taken to the mortuary and were being placed in the hold of the liner was responsible for the disaster. Similar carelessness caused the destruction of the battleship Bulwark in Sheerness harbor in November.

DEWITTS ADOPT WHITNEY GIRL

Judge Jenkins on Thursday afternoon signed an order of adoption of Florence Whitney, 15 years old, by Arthur L. DeWitt and Carrie M. DeWitt, his wife, of Saugerties.

The girl has been attending school at Newark, N. J., for several years. Her parents died a number of years ago and for a time she lived with Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt, who are her aunt and uncle, at Saugerties. Later she went to Newark to live with Mr. DeWitt's brother, and his wife.

Recently the girl wrote to her aunt at Saugerties that she was unhappy in her Newark home and wanted to return to Saugerties if she could. Mrs. DeWitt and another woman from Saugerties went to Newark on Monday and met the girl. Instead of returning at once to Saugerties, they went to Brooklyn, where they visited relatives until Thursday, when they came to Kingston.

Mr. DeWitt met them on their arrival in Kingston and the party went at once to the office of ex-Mayor William D. Brinnier, where papers of adoption were prepared. Later this party visited county court chambers, where the girl said she desired to be adopted by Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt, and the order of adoption was signed by Judge Jenkins.

The New York Evening Journal of Thursday night speaks of Florence Whitney as Florence DeWitt, and professed to see a white slave plot in her "disappearance" from Newark. The Journal says:

"It is believed she went away with a woman who called for her during the day at the high school. The woman, who spoke with a German accent, was refused an interview with the child during class hours, and thereupon left; but other school children saw the DeWitt child with a woman later in the day answering to the description of the woman who called at the school."

"When the girl left her school Monday she wore a gray suit, but school children who knew her declared they saw Florence in a department store later in the day in company of a woman whom they did not recognize as one of her relatives, and at that time Florence wore a new brown suit, apparently just purchased for her."

The police believe that after their shopping was finished, Florence and the strange woman left for New York by way of the Hudson Tube Terminal at Park Place, Newark. They are trying to trace her on that clue, but as yet have not definitely located her.

"Millard DeWitt, an uncle of the girl, said that his niece had at one time some months ago formed a companionship with several undesirable girls in the high school, but that she had been kept out of school and the friendship, he had thought, was broken up."

"When the child left home she left behind her her faithful little dog, Duke, who, the uncle says, is heartbroken at her disappearance."

"The police have learned that at the time the woman suspected of luring Florence away called at the high school, she had another young girl with her. The police are working on the theory that there is an organized effort to take advantage of school girls with less conservative tendencies and lure them to Manhattan to be caught in the whirlpool of white slavery."

Miss Whitney returned to Saugerties with her uncle and aunt Thursday evening and will hereafter make her home with them. She has two brothers, one living in Philadelphia and one in Baltimore.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, May 28.—Captain Oman, commanding the United States cruiser North Carolina today reported to the navy department that his vessel is aground but uninjured, inside the outer harbor at Alexandria, Egypt.

The North Carolina is under orders to come home and serve as an auxiliary to the navy hydroplanes at Pensacola. The Des Moines will be sent to the Mediterranean to relieve the North Carolina.

TUBERCULOSIS CATTLE.

State Agents Have Slaughtered 150 in Ulster County.

Since the first of the year the state agents have had at least 150 cows killed in Ulster county that when tested developed signs of tuberculosis. Under the new health law any farmer desiring to produce grade A or certified milk must have his herd tested for tuberculosis, but for grade B milk only a breast examination is necessary.

There has been some talk in the county that the tuberculin test for ascertaining if cows had tuberculosis was not a positive test but the government records show that where such tests have been made that 97 per cent have been successful in showing that the animal was diseased.

The owners of the cows killed by order of the state agents will not be put to a total loss, however, as under the law the state reimburses the farmer for the value of the cow killed. The main difficulty is that it takes considerable time before the farmer actually receives his check from the state. Last year the amount appropriated for this purpose by the legislature was voted by former Governor Glynn in his "economy" campaign.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS.

1257-1236—A Stylish Dress Appropriate For Many Occasions.

In chiffon taffeta, with under body of net or lace this model would be very attractive. In grenadine, with shadow lace or dotted or figured silk it would also be pleasing, and best of all it lends itself tastefully to the inexpensive and pretty materials now in vogue. The skirt shows especially new style features, in the shaping of the yoke, the smooth front, and pleasing disposition of the fulness over the hips.

The waist has over blouse sections, which are nice for decoration in embroidery or braiding. The sleeve is unique and comfortable with its long shoulder joining, and the short sleeve is nice for warm days. The Waist Pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. It requires 2 1/2 yards of 42 inch material for a 36 inch size. The skirt is cut in 5 sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 inches waist measure. It requires 3 3/4 yards of 44 inch material for a 24 inch size, and measures 2 1/2 yards at the foot.

This illustration calls for two separate patterns, which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents for each pattern in silver or stamps by The Freeman Pattern Department, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state size wanted.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 28, 1915.

President Wilson has decided to make no more speeches while international affairs are so tense, being moved to this determination by what he regards as the undue emphasis put by the press upon his statement at Philadelphia that "there is such a thing as being too proud to fight." He says that he attached no particular significance to the remark, which was meant as a sort of rhetorical flourish and was uttered on the spur of the moment. Doubtless this is the exact truth. Every man and every nation ought to be too proud to become a common brawler or bully, but when real necessity for fighting in a just cause arises it is a very different quality from pride which holds one back. Men like Roosevelt have the gift of talking like lunatics and "getting away with it," but men of the Wilson type should always write out their remarks, revise them well and memorize them. One would hardly think that the President's admirable note to Germany and certain of his public speeches could have the same author.

The recent Atlantic "naval war game," unlike most affairs of its kind, has been of distinct benefit, inasmuch as it demonstrated beyond all doubt that this country is far behind the times in the quality of its submarines. "Of the twelve submarines which came to New York for the maneuvers," says Secretary Daniels, "one was unable to proceed, and various others suffered from breakdowns necessitating repairs of greater or less importance, which took them out of the game for varying lengths of time." Evidently, these craft compare with those in use in Europe just about as an automobile of the vintage of 1897 compares with those in use today. The strange part of it is that the submarine is a Yankee invention and should naturally have reached its greatest perfection here. As we have shown many times in these columns, the United States is paying now and has paid for years more money in navy appropriations than any country on earth, with two exceptions. Yet we get nothing in return. Crooked politics is at the bottom of the trouble, and no one has yet discovered a remedy. Perhaps only some great disaster can wake us up.

Former Senator Beveridge has been giving out an interview to the effect that the existing war is a comparatively trifling affair in view of what is coming. He feels sure that Japan will soon make a great military power of China, and that the two yellow nations will combine and sweep over the rest of the world. There is a man named Hobson who also foresees this calamity. These men are not ignorant in the usual sense of the world, but their judgment seems to be badly distorted. Samuel G. Blythe, who is a keen and trustworthy observer, has been showing in the Saturday Evening Post that it is impossible for Japan to go to war. Her people are taxed to the absolute limit and if she issues more bonds nobody will want to buy them. The Chinese are just as poor, in spite of the natural wealth of their country, which their lack of brains prevents them from utilizing. Moreover, if they got the money, their soldiers could do no harm. They could not march across Asia into Europe. The experience of Great Britain in taking months to transport a small army across the Channel indicates the impossibility of sending an effective force across the Pacific. There will be no race war.

One Walter Jaeger has written a letter to the New York Times in which he makes the argument that Americans are not in a position to criticize Germans. Instead of treating only one or two treaties as "scraps of paper," he makes the charge, and backs it with facts, that the United States has done the same thing more than a score of times in its relations with the Indians. He also claims that we are guilty of massacres of aborigines fully equal in horror to what has happened in Belgium. He also promises in a future communication to show that England and other countries have equally bad records. Probably he can do all this, but is it worth while to undertake the justification of Germany in this way? The history of human morals makes unpleasant reading to a just man, and the only comfort he can get out of it is the assurance that things are getting better. There was quite an advance in standards from the time when Jacob, the beloved of Jehovah, swindled his brother, Esau, and the day when Ananias was struck dead for trying to cheat his associates out of a much smaller bit of property. An even greater advance may be noticed today, for we see big transactions made on honor and without the signing of papers. As with men, so have nations advanced. Immoral precedents are no excuse for present immoral acts. "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone," is a rule of lofty origin, but obedience to it would mean that nobody who needed a stoning for the good of society would ever get it.

TO GIVE OR TO TAKE.

Once in a very great while you may grow cross, tired, and all "out of sorts," and may run with your woes and your weary self to a quarter where you hope to find sympathy, or, at least, someone to listen.

But the attitude of that someone may assure you just as plainly as words that he has troubles of his own; and all of a sudden you find yourself listening to an unfamiliar, unwelcome strain, with your own little story sidetracked and neglected.

And then you may wish that the divine gift of sympathy was not quite so rare; and perhaps you may realize with new force, the great truth that it is the little things in the intimate relationship of life that savor the days and lift us out of depression and away from discouragement.

If the experience sends you back home subdued, but determined to try to cultivate understanding of another's woes and patience with some of his problems, then the small disappointment will not have come in vain.

The plain, unadorned fact is that if folk will not take the time to learn about the woes that disturb us and offer balm for our troubled minds, we must consent to be the listeners and to do the healing.

Just as some, willy-nilly, must be plain tollers in the big field of life, while others pass along, scoring their triumphs as they go, there is another fraction that must listen, sympathize and be content to pour oil upon badly troubled waters. That is, they must if they want to slip into a useful, companionable corner in life.

There are some wonderful figures that take conspicuous places in the world and leave a telling mark of service and achievement as they go, and we could not well get along without them; but in every-day existence the things that count the most are the minor incidents that mean very much as they are happening.

And so, those who cultivate the inner graces and learn to express understanding by the mere touch of a hand or to show sympathy in an unobtrusive way, contribute rather more to happiness and contentment than those who are concerned with much bigger things.

It is right comforting to unburden oneself of an annoyance that grows less and less just in the telling, if one is met with a look or a relief of understanding. There is relief in the recital of trivial matters, and while we do not want to scatter our little worries abroad, it more than half solves a problem to have the assurance of sympathy.

But—not everyone will listen.

Back of it all stands unselfishness that makes some kindly folk ready to lend an ear when the desire is strong to tell a story, and to give a word of sympathy, another of approval, when they are longing to hear similar words.

It may not appeal to us all or satisfy the hope of every wayward heart; but, as we are told many times, it is not what we get out of life, but what we put into it, that makes us stronger with the passing of every year. And it is what we put into human relationship that makes friends and the rest grow nearer and dearer. We want sympathy and comfort, and when they come upon a wish they are wondrously refreshing and healing; but perhaps we gain the more when we have acquired wealth sufficient in that kind of riches to enable us to give freely out of our abundance.

So the next time—and may it be long in the coming—we find ourselves worrying over troubles and ready to gather them all together and pour out to anyone who will listen, it might be better to fortify ourselves to hear another's grievances, to say a word that will sink far down and dispel a fit of gloom.

We do not always feel so at the time, but surely it is better to give sympathy when needed and cultivate that rare grace than to receive abundantly and never learn to dispense in kind.

"You are going away for the summer?" "Of course," replied Mr. Bliggins; "that is to say, my family will go away. I'll stay here." "But the climate won't be comfortable." "I don't care anything about the climate. All I want is rest and quiet."—Washington Star.

Excused!

A southerner tells a story of a colored servant in his employ named Jasper. "One morning, after I had given him some instructions about his work," he said suddenly:

"Mamma, dey had me up befoah my church las' night for tangolin'." "Well, I replied, 'I don't suppose you were guilty—were you, Jasper?'" "Yes, sah, yas, sah! I was guilty ob tangolin', and day proved it on me, too; but I come out of it all clear, sah. My friends stuck to me close, and after dem other niggers had done testified ag'in me, my friends all got up and testified dat I had tangoed, but was so drunk at de time I didn't know what I was doin'." "I come out all clear—an' de preacher accused me!"—New York Times.

The Case Well Put.

The late Lincoln Beachey, like other daring airmen, was deeply religious. At a dinner in New York Mr. Beachey once said:

"We airmen are not like the sailors. Sailors, you know, are great churchgoers in the winter, when the seas are stormy and perilous, but in the summer, when the seas are smooth, the sailors spend their Sundays ashore over pipe and newspaper."

"A minister put the case well when he said:

"You sailors in the winter wear out the knees of your pants praying and in the summer you wear out their seats backsliding."—New York World.

Really Accommodating.

"A cyclone is not such a bad thing, after all," remarked the portly salesman as he settled himself comfortably in his chair. "One saved $5 for me once."

"How did it happen?" asked a lounge.

"I was in a little town out in Kansas about two years ago and wanted to get to another small town, 15 miles distant. There was no railroad between the two points and I was standing in front of the livery stable arguing with the liveryman, who wanted $5 to take me and my sample cases over, when a cyclone came along and, picking me up, landed me right in the little town to which I wanted to go."

"Er—how about your sample cases?" faltered an awed listener.

"Oh," suavely replied the salesman, "the cyclone landed them just ahead of me and had my goods all spread out on display when I got there."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Anxious to Please.

Evangeline Maude had got a new job. Tired of standing all day she threw up her situation as a shopgirl and managed to get work in a telephone exchange although she knew nothing about it.

"The first call came through. 'What number, please?' asked Evangeline M. sweetly.

"Nine—nine—nine—nine!" came the reply.

E. M. looked really distressed. "Oh, I'm so sorry," she breathed through the instrument; "but we're out of—er—I mean that nine—nine—nine—nine is engaged!" But can supply you with nine—nine—nine—eight or ten thousand, if you wish."—The London Sketch.

To the Business Men of Kingston

When a run-down salesman calls on you, do you buy his goods? Aren't you afraid of his line because he looks as if no one ever gave him an order?

Something is true of a seedy town. To be prosperous it must look prosperous and show local pride.

Clean streets, nice stores and well-painted buildings pay because they bring business. Paint-hungry buildings are least excusable, for paint made of and Dutch Boy linseed oil pays its way by protecting buildings against rot and decay. Call up your paint dealer and get an estimate on Dutch Boy White Lead and Dutch Boy linseed oil for your job.

HIGHLAND

Highland, May 27.—The Ladies' Auxiliary of M. E. Church will hold their regular meeting on Friday, June 4, at the home of Mrs. Frank L. Palmer. They expect a crowd out, and there seems to be floating in the air plenty of business, so one of the members informed the reporter, so they want every member present for whoever misses a meeting is always sorry, for these people just have a congenial time.

The state road is progressing slowly. They report certain portions must be completed by boat race day on account of the heavy traffic. Hope it may be true for the road at present is in a deplorable condition.

A great many of our people have very severe colds. The weather does not seem to be very favorable for work or health, so the physicians around can be kept out of mischief for they have to attend to the many calls for help.

Glad to report Miss Edna Eckert very much improved. She expects to be able to attend to her duties at the post office the latter part of the week.

David H. Merritt was a visitor in New Paltz Monday.

Miss Louise Traphagen has returned from a visit with friends in New York and Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Margraff of Clintondale were recently in Paterson, N. J. J. J. Donovan Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. R. H. Decker has a special invitation for a visit at Rockland county Chapter Order of Eastern Star at Nyack, Thursday, June 10. She is an honorary member of that chapter and had conferred upon her the degree, queen of the south, at that place, and has her certificate, which she prizes highly. At this meeting the D. D. G. M., and assistant G. L. of the 10th district make their official visit. A grand time is expected.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 28, 1915.

President Wilson has decided to make no more speeches while international affairs are so tense, being moved to this determination by what he regards as the undue emphasis put by the press upon his statement at Philadelphia that "there is such a thing as being too proud to fight." He says that he attached no particular significance to the remark, which was meant as a sort of rhetorical flourish and was uttered on the spur of the moment. Doubtless this is the exact truth. Every man and every nation ought to be too proud to become a common brawler or bully, but when real necessity for fighting in a just cause arises it is a very different quality from pride which holds one back. Men like Roosevelt have the gift of talking like lunatics and "getting away with it," but men of the Wilson type should always write out their remarks, revise them well and memorize them. One would hardly think that the President's admirable note to Germany and certain of his public speeches could have the same author.

The recent Atlantic "naval war game," unlike most affairs of its kind, has been of distinct benefit, inasmuch as it demonstrated beyond all doubt that this country is far behind the times in the quality of its submarines. "Of the twelve submarines which came to New York for the maneuvers," says Secretary Daniels, "one was unable to proceed, and various others suffered from breakdowns necessitating repairs of greater or less importance, which took them out of the game for varying lengths of time." Evidently, these craft compare with those in use in Europe just about as an automobile of the vintage of 1897 compares with those in use today. The strange part of it is that the submarine is a Yankee invention and should naturally have reached its greatest perfection here. As we have shown many times in these columns, the United States is paying now and has paid for years more money in navy appropriations than any country on earth, with two exceptions. Yet we get nothing in return. Crooked politics is at the bottom of the trouble, and no one has yet discovered a remedy. Perhaps only some great disaster can wake us up.

Former Senator Beveridge has been giving out an interview to the effect that the existing war is a comparatively trifling affair in view of what is coming. He feels sure that Japan will soon make a great military power of China, and that the two yellow nations will combine and sweep over the rest of the world. There is a man named Holston who also foresees this calamity. These men are not ignorant in the usual sense of the world, but their judgment seems to be badly distorted. Samuel G. Blythe, who is a keen and trustworthy observer, has been showing in the Saturday Evening Post that it is impossible for Japan to go to war. Her people are taxed to the absolute limit and if she issues more bonds nobody will want to buy them. The Chinese are just as poor, in spite of the natural wealth of their country, which their lack of brains prevents them from utilizing. Moreover, if they got the money, their soldiers could do no harm. They could not march across Asia into Europe. The experience of Great Britain in taking months to transport a small army across the Channel indicates the impossibility of sending an effective force across the Pacific. There will be no race war.

One Walter Jaeger has written a letter to the New York Times in which he makes the argument that Americans are not in a position to criticize Germans. Instead of treating only one or two treaties as "scraps of paper," he makes the charge, and backs it with facts, that the United States has done the same thing more than a score of times in its relations with the Indians. He also claims that we are guilty of massacres of aborigines fully equal in horror to what has happened in Belgium. He also promises in a future communication to show that England and other countries have equally bad records. Probably he can do all this, but is it worth while to undertake the justification of Germany in this way? The history of human morals makes unpleasant reading to a just man, and the only comfort he can get out of it is the assurance that things are getting better. There was quite an advance in standards from the time when Jacob, the beloved of Jehovah, swindled his brother, Esau, and the day when Ananias was struck dead for trying to cheat his associates out of a much smaller bit of property. An even greater advance may be noticed today, for we see big transactions made on honor and without the signing of papers. As with men, so have nations advanced. Immoral precedents are no excuse for present immoral acts. "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone," is a rule of lofty origin, but obedience to it would mean that nobody who needed a stoning for the good of society would ever get it.

TO GIVE OR TO TAKE.

Once in a very great while you may grow cross, tired, and all "out of sorts," and may run with your woes and your weary self to a quarter where you hope to find sympathy, or, at least, someone to listen.

But the attitude of that someone may assure you just as plainly as words that he has troubles of his own; and all of a sudden you find yourself listening to an unfamiliar, unwelcome strain, with your own little story sidetracked and neglected.

And then you may wish that the divine gift of sympathy was not quite so rare; and perhaps you may realize with new force, the great truth that it is the little things in the intimate relationship of life that savor the days and lift us out of depression and away from discouragement.

If the experience sends you back home subdued, but determined to try to cultivate understanding of another's woes and patience with some of his problems, then the small disappointment will not have come in vain.

The plain, unvarnished fact is that if folk will not take the time to learn about the woes that disturb us and offer balm for our troubled minds, we must consent to be the listeners and to do the healing.

Just as some, willy-nilly, must be plain toilers in the big field of life, while others pass along, scoring their triumphs as they go, there is another fraction that must listen, sympathize and be content to pour oil upon badly troubled waters. That is, they must if they want to slip into a useful, companionable corner in life.

There are some wonderful figures that take conspicuous places in the world and leave a telling mark of service and achievement as they go, and we could not well get along without them; but in every-day existence the things that count the most are the minor incidents that mean very much as they are happening.

And so, those who cultivate the inner peace and learn to express understanding by the mere touch of a hand or to show sympathy in an unobtrusive way, contribute rather more to happiness and contentment than those who are concerned with much bigger things.

It is right comforting to unburden oneself of an annoyance that grows less and less just in the telling, if one is met with a look or a word of understanding. There is relief in the recital of trivial matters, and while we do not want to scatter our little worries abroad, it more than half solves a problem to have the assurance of sympathy.

But—not everyone will listen.

Back of it all stands unselfishness that makes some kindly folk ready to lend an ear when the desire is strong to tell a story, and to give a word of sympathy, another of approval, when they are longing to hear similar words.

It may not appeal to us all or satisfy the hope of every wayward heart; but, as we are told many times, it is not what we get out of life, but what we put into it, that makes us stronger with the passing of every year. And it is what we put into human relationship that makes friends and the rest grow nearer and dearer. We want sympathy and comfort, and when they come upon a wish they are wondrously refreshing and healing; but perhaps we gain the more when we have acquired wealth sufficient in that kind of riches to enable us to give freely out of our abundance.

So the next time—and may it be long in the coming—we find ourselves worrying over troubles and ready to gather them all together and pour out to anyone who will listen, it might be better to fortify ourselves to bear another's grievances, to say a word that will sink far down and dispel a fit of gloom.

We do not always feel so at the time, but surely it is better to give sympathy when needed and cultivate that rare grace than to receive abundantly and never learn to dispense in kind.

'Well,' I replied, 'I don't suppose you were guilty—were you, Jasper?' 'Yes, sah, yas, sah.' 'I was guilty too tangoing,' and day proved it on me, too; but I come out of it all clear, sah. My friends stuck to me close, and after dem other niggers had done testified ag'in me, my friends all got up and testified dat I had tangoed, but was so drunk at de time I didn't know what I was doin'. So I come out all clear—an' de preacher scused me!"—New York Times.

The Case Well Put.

The late Lincoln Beachey, like other daring airmen, was deeply religious. At a dinner in New York Mr. Beachey once said:

"We airmen are not like the sailors. Sailors, you know, are great churchgoers in the winter, when the seas are stormy and perilous, but in the summer, when the seas are smooth, the sailors spend their Sundays ashore over pipe and newspaper."

"A minister put the case well when he said:

"You sailors in the winter wear out the knees of your pants praying and in the summer you wear out their seats backsliding."—New York World.

Really Accommodating.

"A cyclone is not such a bad thing, after all," remarked the portly salesman as he settled himself comfortably in his chair. "One saved $5 for me once."

"How did it happen?" asked a listener.

"I was in a little town out in Kansas about two years ago and wanted to get to another small town, 15 miles distant. There was no railroad between the two points and I was standing in front of the livery stable arguing with the liveryman, who wanted $5 to take me and my sample cases over, when a cyclone came along and, picking me up, landed me right in the little town to which I wanted to go."

"Er—how about your sample cases?" faltered an awed listener.

"Oh," suavely replied the salesman, "the cyclone landed them just ahead of me and had my goods all spread out on display when I got there."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Anxious to Please.

Evangeline Maude had got a new job. Tired of standing all day she threw up her situation as a shopgirl and managed to get work in a telephone exchange although she knew nothing about it.

The first call came through. "What number, please?" asked Evangeline M. sweetly.

"Nine—nine—nine—nine!" came the reply.

E. M. looked really distressed. "Oh, I'm so sorry," she breathed through the instrument; "but we're out of—er—I mean that nine—nine—nine—nine is engaged." But can supply you with nine—nine—nine—eight or ten thousand, if you wish."

—The London Sketch.

Last Call! THE GREAT

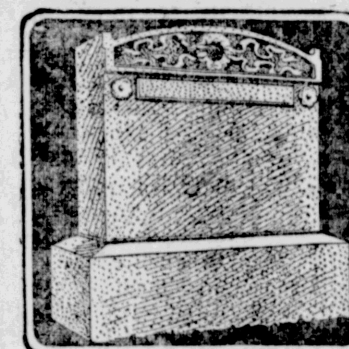

MONUMENT DISPOSAL

Ends Saturday!

Those plot owners and others who have been considering the purchase of a monument or a grave-stone of any kind and have neglected to do so while our price-reduction event has continued, have but a brief period to order a stone at lessened cost. After Saturday regular prices will prevail. This does not imply that our usual prices are excessive at any time, but it means that the special quotations at which our beautiful products have been offered during the past few weeks can no longer be taken advantage of after this week.

Therefore it behooves prospective purchasers to hurry hither and select the Monument that suits their particular requirements and save a substantial sum of money that can be used for other necessary purposes. Those who are forehanded will greatly profit by acting promptly.

Naturally we'll not be able to fill orders for Decoration Day if they come in at the "eleventh hour," but all Monuments bought now at reduced prices will be delivered as soon thereafter as possible.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

The Studio and business of the late Mr. W. V. Pennington, at 72 Main St., will continue to be conducted by the same productive organization that existed, and enjoyed Mr. Pennington's complete confidence while its proprietor.

Every successful policy he advocated, and all recent contracts made with Social, Educational and Commercial Associations will be fulfilled in accordance with his plans and wishes.

Mrs. Pennington, whom Mr. Pennington regarded as censor and final critic on all products leaving the Studio, will be in charge; assisted by Mr. Lou Merlat, her brother, intimately connected with Mr. Pennington for the past four years, and who, as operator, has made all negatives, designs, etc., and handled the advertising in the Main St. Studio. Both are artists of recognized ability, backed years of successful experience.

The same corps of efficient assistants will support them.

The steady patronage of Kingston friends and their voluntary assurances of continued support, which the management hereby gratefully acknowledges, makes a formal announcement almost unnecessary.

To the trade in general, and to hundreds of out-of-town patrons not in immediate touch with the slight change, the present management wishes to state that it aims, by up-to-date ideas and methods, and hard work to maintain and fully merit their future confidence.

WORRY IS A PERIL

It Often Causes Ills Greater by Far Than Itself.

LIABLE TO LEAD TO DEATH.

In Many Cases It is an Important
 Agent in the Production of Diabetes, Gout, Goiter, Chronic Heart Disease and Other Physical Troubles.

With the possible exception of those in the period of happy childhood, every one is at times a victim of worry. In fact, the average individual thinks of and accepts worry much as he thinks of and accepts disagreeable weather conditions—as one of the bitter things of life which must be taken with the sweet. In other words, he regards it as a fact, but does not attempt to analyze it.

The wisest thinkers of all times have recognized the condition, and many well known writers have expressed their views of its psychology. What has not been sufficiently recognized, however, until very recently, is the importance of worry, not merely in itself, as implying the absence of happiness, but as the cause of ill far greater than itself, the cause predisposing to secondary manifestations which would otherwise have been escaped altogether.

Having fully comprehended this fact,
 the next logical step in scientific progression is to determine the exact mechanism by which these disturbances are brought about. Through the con-joint efforts of psychologists and physiologists we are just beginning to reach the true physical basis of this important subject.

The keynote of worry is beyond doubt a disturbance of the mind, says Dr.
 Eric D. Forrest in the Medical Record.
 It may be defined as the restless consciousness of all incumbrances which we accept under protest.

To elaborate this definition, it is the mind's unrest about anything which concerns us, whether it relates to our future, our dear ones, a cause we have espoused, our happiness, our salvation, our means of support, our position in life, our health, our fate or our success in general. It does not consist solely in our interest in all these things; it is rather a disquietude arising from a feeling of helplessness before the various chances and claims of life.

The popular opinion seems to be that the mental condition is one of depression, possibly because the physical manifestations are chiefly depressive in nature. The fact cannot be too strongly emphasized, however, that the primary mental condition is one of overactivity and, moreover, overactivity along lines of fixed ideas.

Without taking up individually the phases of worry brought about by the various specific causes the physical manifestations of worry in general may be said to be depression of respiration, sighing, disturbances in rate and force of heart beat, vasomotor changes, disturbances in secretion, pal-lor, cold extremities, relaxation and decreased motility of the alimentary tract, dilatation of the pupil, loss of weight, insomnia and general physical exhaustion.

These disturbances may vary in their prominence and may appear as groups of symptoms characterizing well known diseases. Thus worry is sometimes an important agent in the production of diabetes, gout, exophthalmic goiter and chronic heart disease.

Inasmuch as worry is primarily a disease of the mind, and since every portion of the body is intimately connected with every other part by a network of nervous tissue of great complexity, we naturally seek for the causes of these manifestations, first of all, in the nervous system.

In every individual at a given time there is a limited amount of potential energy stored up in the cells of the brain. This function seems to rest in the chromatin granules of the nerve cells, and it has been shown repeatedly that a liberation of nervous energy, whether in response to a psychic or sensory stimulus, results in a physiological degeneration of the chromatin granules, and consequently of the cells themselves. Obviously a prolonged discharge of nervous energy diminishes by so much the amount left in the brain cells. Furthermore, stimuli of sufficient number, intensity or duration may cause exhaustion and death.

Origin of the Sun Flag.

The origin of the emblem of the sun as the Japanese national symbol dates back to time immemorial. The first record of its use on land is that of a famous war lord of the eleventh century; again in the fifteenth century the emblem was adopted by the feudal lords and warriors. The connection of the emblem with the navy is also deep rooted, having had local usage as early as 71 A. D., and a more extended field in 110 A. D. The official adoption of the sun flag to represent the nation took place in 1810.—Bulletin of the Japan Society.

Little Mary's Complaint.

Little Mary's mamma had promised to take her to see a moving picture show on a certain afternoon, but circumstances compelled her to change her plans. "Oh, dear!" sighed Mary.
 "I do wish I had a mother that wasn't

Duty to One's Brother Man.

As ships meet at sea, a moment together, when words of greeting must be spoken, and then they away into the deep, so men meet in this world; and I think we should cross no man's path without hailing him, and if he needs, giving him supplies.—Henry Ward Beecher.

INJUNCTION DENIED IN YALE QUARRY CASE

Judge Hasbrouck has handed down a decision in the case of Joseph T. Mulligan against the Board of Water Supply of the City of New York, Comptroller Prendergast and Jerome H. Burk, in which application was made at the last special term of the supreme court for an injunction restraining the city of New York from taking further proceedings in relation to Parcel No. 7, known as the Yale quarry, on the ground that the city authorities had not complied with the law, as they had failed to file the maps and plans required by the Water Supply Act, and that the property not being required for water supply purposes was being confiscated by the city.

The application was opposed by Mr. Speer, counsel for the city, on the ground that no detailed maps were required to be filed and the fact that the property was required for water supply purposes was evidenced by the fact that part of the land had been submerged. The city also contended that even if it had acquired the land for the purpose of obtaining stone, it was acting well within its rights under a long line of decisions.

Judge Hasbrouck denies the application for the injunction, and in his opinion says: "The action of the above named taxpayer is based upon two claims. First, that the City of New York has failed to obtain the approval of the State Board of Water Supply or its successor to the maps describing the lands to be acquired under Chapter 724 of the Laws of 1905 for reservoir purposes under a similar case. In Re the Application and Petition of the Board of Water Supply, etc., to acquire a perpetual underground easement, etc., Arrietta street, etc., the Appellate Division of the Second Department has held as follows: 'The City of New York has had a final clause that, before such taking, the maps and plans covering the work contemplated by this act should be approved by the State Water Supply Commission. (Laws 1905, Chapter 724, Section 46.) Plainly this local act did not thereby add to the requirements of such applications to the State Commission already laid down in the preceding chapter. The maps and plans covering the work meant the exhibit of maps and profiles already prescribed by Section 3 of the State Water Commission Act.'

"When the City Board of Water Supply have had these maps adopted by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, they are to transmit them so certified to the Corporation Counsel, who then is to give the usual notice (Sec. 7) and to make application for the appointment of Commissioners Appraisal. This excludes any idea that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has acted, these acquisition maps are to be further submitted to the State Commission. Such submission of condemnation maps to the State Water Commission had not been had in the course of official procedure hitherto in the many condemnations taken under this act. Practical official construction and statutory interpretation are therefore in accord with considerations of practical efficiency, in the conclusion that such submission is not required after the general plan, maps and profiles have been approved by the State Water Commission."

152 N. Y. Supp. 1028. It would be unseemly for this court not to follow the precedent thus established.

The second claim is that there is no necessity for the acquisition on the part of the City of New York of the lands known as the Yale Quarry. What the needs of the people may be rests for determination by the Legislature in the exercise of the right of eminent domain. Where such power is committed to municipalities they in turn are put under responsibility of determining the extent of the domain required for public use. The acquiring state or municipality or agency employed by either constitute the sole judges of the necessity. This legislative power the court may not invade unless its exercise is imbued with fraud or the power has been plainly and grossly abused.

Motion for a temporary injunction denied with costs.

FEDERATION WEEK AND TAG DAY

Beginning Monday, Federation week, closing with Tag Day next Saturday, will be observed, for the purpose of raising, it is earnestly hoped, at least $1,500 for the coming year's philanthropic work of the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs. It must be remembered by all who are asked to contribute—and so far as possible that will be every resident in the city—that not one cent of all the large sum of money contributed for relief last winter, and managed by the Federation's social worker, Mrs. MacMillan, went into the treasury of the Federation. They too did a most unusual amount of relief work, and in addition, alone bore the financial responsibility of Mrs. Mac Millan's salary, while she was doing all of the tremendously heavy philanthropic work of last season. Now the Federation needs the above mentioned sum, if it is to continue having Mrs. Mac Millan as its social worker, and is in addition to carry forward all of the other activities which it has so successfully operated for the good of the community. This money is therefore, not asked for the good of the Federation, but for the good of the community, which will be served, especially its less favored members, by the Federation.

There was a most enthusiastic meeting of the chairman of Federation Week and Tag Day, held at the home of the head chairman, Mrs. Henry Van Hoesenberg yesterday afternoon. Through the generosity of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad, trolley car tickets were received for the necessary use of the workers, and arm badges, chairman badges, boxes, tags, etc., were given out. The following women will act as chairmen of their respective wards:

Dr. Mary Gage-Day, First Ward.
Mrs. Henry Myers, Second Ward.
Miss Georgia Deudney, Third Ward.
Mrs. A. Ray Powley, Fifth Ward.
Mrs. Mac Millan, Sixth Ward.
Miss Sadie Boyd, Eighth Ward.
Mrs. McHugh, Ninth Ward.
Mrs. Vernon Hull, Tenth Ward.
Mrs. Charles K. Moulton, Eleventh Ward.
Mrs. W. N. Fessenden, Twelfth Ward.
Mrs. Fred C. Lang, Thirteenth Ward.

ELKS' MAY DANCE.

First Opportunity to Visit New Kingston Point Resort.

At the Casino at Kingston Point Park this evening Kingston Lodge of Elks will hold a May dance. This will be the first opportunity for the public to inspect the new dance hall which has been transformed entirely from the former penny arcade into a really artistic ballroom. The hall has been widened and gives additional room for patrons of the terrace and is beautifully decorated and lighted throughout. The music will be by Muller's orchestra which is sufficient guarantee of its quality. A new floor has been laid and there will be no better place to spend an enjoyable evening.

K. A. Alumni Association.

A meeting of the Kingston Academy Alumni Association was held at the academy building Thursday night when the members present decided to substitute a reception and dance for the banquet which at first had been proposed as a fitting close to the alumni's activities in connection with the old school which after this year will be merged with Ulster Academy in the new high school. Light refreshments will be served at the reception. Miss Eloise Myer, president of the association, presided at the meeting and Judge Clearwater was unanimously elected honorary president. A publicity committee, composed of Mrs. Floyd G. Edinger, Mrs. C. N. Reed and George F. O'Neil, was appointed, and other committees will be announced later.

Sandy Reasoned Well.
Sandy McEwen is six years old. The other day a girl baby was born in the family across the way. Said Sandy, worldly wise:

"The first week I s'pose she'll have a birthday every day. The first month she'll have one every week. The first year she'll have one every month. After that she'll have one every year forever an' ever."

"No, dear—only till she dies," corrected an older member of the family. "Is that so?" answered Sandy scornfully. "Ain't George Washington been dead for quite some time, and ain't he having birthdays yet?" — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

DANGERS OF FLATTERY.

In order that all men may be taught to speak truth it is necessary that all should learn to hear it, for no species of falsehood is more frequent than flattery, to which the coward is betrayed by fear, the dependent by interest, the friend by tenderness. Those neither servile nor timorous are yet desirous to bestow pleasure, and while unjust demands of praise continue to be made there will always be some whom hope, fear or kindness will dispose to pay them.—Johnson.

Clear Waste.
"He has a quick temper, you know," was the excuse given by a friend for a boy's rude act.
"Is he quick at his lessons?" was the question.
"No," was the reply.
"Is he quick at sports?" the questioner went on.
Again the answer was "No."
"Is he quick in obedience?"
"No."
"Well," said the questioner, with a twinkle in his eye, "if he has so little quickness he'd better use it where it will do him some good. It's just clear waste to put it on his temper." — Exchange.

Last Call! THE GREAT MONUMENT DISPOSAL Ends Saturday!

Those plot owners and others who have been considering the purchase of a monument or a grave-stone of any kind and have neglected to do so while our price-reduction event has continued, have but a brief period to order a stone at lessened cost. After Saturday regular prices will prevail. This does not imply that our usual prices are excessive at any time, but it means that the special quotations at which our beautiful products have been offered during the past few weeks can no longer be taken advantage of after this week.

Therefore it behooves prospective purchasers to hurry hither and select the Monument that suits their particular requirements and save a substantial sum of money that can be used for other necessary purposes. Those who are forehanded will greatly profit by acting promptly.

Naturally we'll not be able to fill orders for Decoration Day if they come in at the "eleventh hour," but all Monuments bought now at reduced prices will be delivered as soon thereafter as possible.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

The Studio and business of the late Mr. W. F. Pennington, at 72 Main St., will continue to be conducted by the same productive organization that existed, and enjoyed Mr. Pennington's complete confidence while its proprietor.

Every successful policy he advocated, and all recent contracts made with Social, Educational and Commercial Associations will be fulfilled in accordance with his plans and wishes.

Mrs. Pennington, whom Mr. Pennington regarded as censor and final critic on all products leaving the Studio, will be in charge; assisted by Mr. Lou Medikit, her brother, intimately connected with Mr. Pennington for the past four years, and who, as operator, has made all negatives, designs, etc., and handled the advertising in the Main St. Studio. Both are artists of recognized ability, backed years of successful experience.

The same corps of efficient assistants will support them.

The steady patronage of Kingston friends and their voluntary assurances of continued support, which the management hereby gratefully acknowledges, makes a formal announcement almost unnecessary.

To the trade in general, and to hundreds of out-of-town patrons not in immediate touch with the slight change, the present management wishes to state that it aims, by up-to-date ideas and methods, and hard work to maintain and fully merit their future confidence.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, May 28.—Hey, fellows, Jawn McGraw has took his pen in hand again and has taken to writin' articles about cream-puffs, the Giants, Ban Johnson and the condition of his mental and physical self. "I am good and sore" remarked John, right at the commencement of his article. That's probably to prepare everybody for what's coming.

What's Jawn "good and sore" at? Oh, many, many things, including Ban Johnson. However, the fact that Jawn is sore on Ban is not news. Jawn has been sore at Ban for such a long, long time that even the oldest inhabitant can't recollect the date when the soreness first afflicted Jawn.

Jawn says that one of the specific reasons for his present general soreness is the Kauff case. Of course, there are other reasons to be explained later—but the Kauff case is the wound that causes Jawn the greatest agony. Jawn insists that Kauff wasn't under legal contract when he snared the Federal League kangaroo, and Jawn feels just dreadfully angry because the National Comish chased Kauff back to the wilds of Brooklyn after Jawn had rescued him.

Jawn asserts, vehemently, that if Kauff had jumped to the American League there would have been a different finish for the Kauff case. Jawn is heart-broken over the fact that baseball has degenerated into what he calls "a cream puff, charlotte russe affair." Not that Jawn doesn't like cream puffs and charlotte Russes. That isn't the reason, the real reason is that Jawn doesn't like to have cream puffs, et cetera mixed up with baseball. Jawn probably fears that such a mixture might ruin his digestion, and, you know, it's pretty tough on a fellow who is eating at some one else's expense to have an impaired digestion.

GRADUATION DAY GIFTS.

Books, cards, fancy booklets, fountain pens, nibby box paper and other novelties. O'REILLY'S 530 Broadway.

After exhausting himself on the baseball war and Benny Kauff features, Jawn gets right into the heart of things by remarking that there are a couple of other clubs in the National League Pennant fight besides the Giants.

After making that statement, Jawn says: "Laugh at these three words (besides the Giants) if you wish."

Probably there are some folk—in Bawston, Philadelpha and elsewhere—who wish to laugh at these three words. That being the case we will halt operations for one minute to permit them to laugh.

(All readers are asked at this point to pause for one minute.)

Now, fellows, having paused to allow for laughter, we will proceed. "A manager" says Jawn, "cannot get a team into first place with such pitching as I've had."

If Ruben Marquard, who pitched a no-hit game about four weeks ago reads what Jawn wrote, it's likely that Richard's temperment may get the better of him and he'll rush up and smite Jawn on his frontispice.

Jawn concedes the Cubs and the Braves a chance for world series honors. As for the Phillies—pooh, pooh.

"I" said Jawn, "Have existed on this earth for a sufficient length of time to have seen quite a number of Philadelphia clubs win a pennant in April and May."

Jawn did not say anything about having seen a Philadelphia club give his outfit quite a number of beatings in recent world series battles. Probably Jawn figured that such things belong to a dead and embalmed past.

Shifting again to the subject of baseball war, Jawn says:

"This baseball war is being fought with lawyers, injunctions and fountain pens."

In conclusion Jawn brings in a thrilling climax by saying: "I wish the baseball war were being fought barehanded."

Well, Jawn, if it were, where would you be?

WORRY IS A PERIL

It Often Causes Its Greater by Far Than Itself.

LIABLE TO LEAD TO DEATH.

In Many Cases It is an Important Agent in the Production of Diabetes, Gout, Goiter, Chronic Heart Disease and Other Physical Troubles.

With the possible exception of those in the period of happy childhood, every one is at times a victim of worry. In fact, the average individual thinks of and accepts worry much as he thinks of and accepts disagreeable weather conditions—as one of the bitter things of life which must be taken with the sweet. In other words, he regards it as a fact, but does not attempt to analyze it.

The wisest thinkers of all times have recognized the condition, and many well known writers have expressed their views of its psychology. What has not been sufficiently recognized, however, until very recently, is the importance of worry, not merely in itself, as implying the absence of happiness, but as the cause of ill far greater than itself, the cause predisposing to secondary manifestations which would otherwise have been escaped altogether.

Having fully comprehended this fact, the next logical step in scientific progression is to determine the exact mechanism by which these disturbances are brought about. Through the conjoined efforts of psychologists and physiologists we are just beginning to reach the true physical basis of this important subject.

The keynote of worry is beyond doubt a disturbance of the mind, says Dr. Eric D. Forrester in the Medical Record. It may be defined as the restless consciousness of all incumbrances which we accept under protest.

To elaborate this definition, it is the mind's unrest about anything which concerns us, whether it relates to our future, our dear ones, a cause we have espoused, our happiness, our salvation, our means of support, our position in life, our health, our fate or our success in general. It does not consist solely in our interest in all these things; it is rather a disquietude arising from a feeling of helplessness before the various chances and claims of life.

The popular opinion seems to be that the mental condition is one of depression, possibly because the physical manifestations are chiefly depressive in nature. The fact cannot be too strongly emphasized, however, that the primary mental condition is one of overactivity and, moreover, overactivity along lines of fixed ideas.

Without taking up individually the phases of worry brought about by the various specific causes the physical manifestations of worry in general may be said to be depression of respiration, sighing, disturbances in rate and force of heart beat, vasomotor changes, disturbances in secretion, pallor, cold extremities, relaxation and decreased motility of the alimentary tract, inattention of the pupil, loss of weight, insomnia and general physical exhaustion.

These disturbances may vary in their prominence and may appear as groups of symptoms characterizing well known diseases. Thus worry is sometimes an important agent in the production of diabetes, gout, exophthalmic goiter and chronic heart disease.

Inasmuch as worry is primarily a disease of the mind, and since every portion of the body is intimately connected with every other part by a network of nervous tissue of great complexity, we naturally seek for the causes of these manifestations, first of all, in the nervous system.

In every individual at a given time there is a limited amount of potential energy stored up in the cells of the brain. This function seems to rest in the chromatin granules of the nerve cells, and it has been shown repeatedly that a liberation of nervous energy, whether in response to a psychic or sensory stimulus, results in a physiological degeneration of the chromatin granules, and consequently of the cells themselves. Obviously a prolonged discharge of nervous energy diminishes by so much the amount left in the brain cells. Furthermore, stimuli of sufficient number, intensity or duration may cause exhaustion and death.

Origin of the Sun Flag.
The origin of the emblem of the sun as the Japanese national symbol dates back to time immemorial. The first record of its use on land is that of a famous war lord of the eleventh century; again in the fifteenth century the emblem was adopted by the feudal lords and warriors. The connection of the emblem with the navy is also deep rooted, having had local usage as early as 71 A. D., and a more extended field in 110 A. D. The official adoption of the sun flag to represent the nation took place in 1870.—Bulletin of the Japan Society.

Keep Your Mouth Clean

After each meal your mouth is dirty like the dishes you ate from. Do you wash the dishes and let your mouth go dirty? This food in the warm, moist mouth soon becomes putrid. This gives a bad breath, causes disease germs to be taken into the stomach with the next meal and decays the teeth.

Don't allow your mouth to become such a cesspool. Have all of your decayed teeth filled or crowned and have all missing teeth replaced by bridge work.

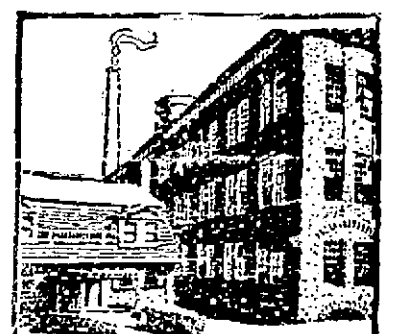

It takes a full equipment of teeth to chew the food properly. Machinery would not run with a few cogs in the wheel missing. The mouth needs all its teeth.

Extractions, $5; Silver Fillings, $1; Gold Fillings from $2; Gold and Porcelain Crowns, $5; Bridge Work, per tooth, $5; Plates, $10 and $15.

WHEN DINNER COMES.

One Ought to Have a Good Appetite.

A good appetite is the best sauce. It goes a long way toward helping in the digestive process, and that is absolutely essential to health and strength.

Many persons have found that Grape-Nuts food is not only nourishing but is a great appetizer, and children like the taste of it and grow strong and rosy from its use.

It is especially the food to make a weak stomach strong and create an appetite for dinner.

"I am 57 years old," writes a Tenn. grandmother, "and have had a weak stomach from childhood. By great care as to my diet I enjoyed a reasonable degree of health, but never found anything to equal Grape-Nuts as a standby."

"When I have no appetite for breakfast and just eat to keep up my strength, I take 4 teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts with good rich milk, and when dinner comes I am hungry. While I go without any breakfast, I never feel like eating dinner. Grape-Nuts for breakfast seem to make a healthy appetite for dinner."

"My little grandson was sick with stomach trouble during the past summer, and finally we put him on Grape-Nuts. Now he is growing plump and well. When asked if he wants his nurse or Grape-Nuts, he brightens up and points to the cup-board. He was no trouble to wean at all—thanks to Grape-Nuts."

Why He Does Not "Ring True."
A small piece of foreign substance falling into the bell metal will ruin the resonance and music of the bell. That is what we mean when we say that such a man does not "ring true;" some foreign substance has got into the casting of his life.

Almost the Ideal.
"How are the springs on this car?" "Simply wonderful! You don't notice a child, and even when you run over a grown man, it's no discomfort at all!"—Life.

MANHATTAN

Ellenville, May 28.—Howard Kanter, a student from the Theological Seminary at New Brunswick, N. J., has been appointed to take charge of the Reformed Church at Grahamsville for the summer. He will begin services there on Sunday, May 30.

A. G. Carberwood was in Middletown Thursday for the funeral of Miss Anna K. Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Byrnes have closed their home for the summer and have gone to Haines Falls to open Sunset Park Inn, which Mr. Byrnes has successfully managed for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Backman are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a son in their home on Market street.

Rev. E. W. Miller, secretary to the board of foreign missions, will occupy the pulpit of the Reformed Church on Sunday.

Eugene G. Bishop, of the post office force, is away on a vacation trip. Miss Lapp, a former clerk, is assisting at the office during Mr. Bishop's absence.

Albert Ellsworth of New York is spending a few days at his home on Canal street.

Miss Alice Moffit is the guest of Miss M. E. Rogier at Liberty.

The Misses Elizabeth and Margaret Sheridan are to spend Memorial Day with their niece, Mrs. John Mayo and family at Campbell Hall. Michael Sheridan of New York and Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Murray of Brooklyn will also spend Memorial Day at the Mayo home.

Mrs. Fred Kopf has returned from a month's visit with her daughters, Mrs. James McCarthy at Waterbury, Conn., and Mrs. C. F. Dodson at Astoria, L. I.

Mrs. David A. Galloway of Brodhead street is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Morgan Coutsant at New Paltz.

Mrs. Irving T. McNally of Hurler's visited Ellenville relatives this week.

Stephen H. Ernshout has gone to take a position at Schenectady.

Miss Mary H. Clark has gone to Grahamsville, her old home town, and will spend some time at the home of Horace Divine.

Miss Alma Derby entertained a company of her young friends at her home on Center street Tuesday evening. Dancing and games with fine refreshments served were the features of the evening's entertainment.

The Friday Night Club is to spend Sunday and Monday at Bert H. Cornell's camp at Ulster Heights.

At a meeting of the business men, held at Firemen's Hall, it was decided to keep open all business places each evening from June 1 to September 1, and then commence to close the stores at 6 o'clock every evening, except Thursday and Saturday evenings.

Miss Norine Cowan teacher of music and drawing in the Ellenville schools has tendered her resignation. Archdeacon Pott of New York will occupy the pulpit of St. John's Episcopal Church on Sunday, both morning and evening and on Wednesday June 2 there will be a special service at 8 p. m. at which time the Bishop of New York will be present and administer the apostolic rite of Confirmation.

Arrangements have been made for the presentation by the order of O. U. A. M. of a U. S. flag to the school in front of the new school building at 12:30 on Monday afternoon, May 31.

The presentation will be made for the order by Andrew W. Lent of Highland, who is one of the state officers, who will speak to those assembled and will be accepted in the name of the board of education by H. Westlake Coons. Ward Post, G. A. R., will take part in the ceremonies. Appropriate music will be furnished.

The town board met Tuesday and passed a resolution to be presented to the board of supervisors which was to meet Wednesday authorizing bonds for the bridge at Port Ben.

Bonds were authorized once before and use was made of them at that time. It is understood the iron for the bridge is now on its way and work will begin at once.

It is understood that Mrs. S. K. Thomas has not rented her home in Ellenville, as before stated.

Every indication points for a busy time for the Wayside Inn over Memorial Day, as already rooms have been reserved. One of the Inn's popular dances will be held Friday evening from 8:30 to 2 a. m., with ice cream and cake served in the main dining hall.

Mrs. Susan Holmes will entertain the members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. Church at her home on Warren street Tuesday afternoon, June 1.

Fred Groo of Ellenville has sold his fine residence at Summitville to an engineer named Boyer.

Duty to One's Brother Man.

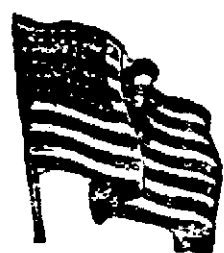

As ships meet at sea, a moment to speak, when words of greeting must be spoken, and then away into the deep, so men meet in this world; and I think we should cross no man's path without hailing him, and if he needs, bring him supplies.—Henry Ward Beecher.

SAVING TIME AND MONEY

The man who makes money takes most during the time when he saves most.

Today, as never before, time is reckoned in dollars and cents, and when you save hours in searching for a position, you have saved just as much capital for coming into ready money.

The time saver of today for the worker is the Want Ad. It is the direct route from employer to employee.

INJUNCTION DENIED IN YALE QUARRY CASE

Judge Hasbrouck has handed down a decision in the case of Joseph T. Mulligan against the Board of Water Supply of the City of New York, Comptroller Prendergast and Jerome H. Buck, in which application was made at the last special term of the supreme court for an injunction restraining the city of New York from taking further proceedings in relation to Parcel No. 7, known as the Yale quarry, on the ground that the city authorities had not complied with the law, as they had failed to file the maps and plans required by the Water Supply Act, and that the property not being required for water supply purposes was being confiscated by the city.

The application was opposed by Mr. Speer, counsel for the city, on the ground that no detailed maps were required to be filed and the fact that the property was required for water supply purposes was evidenced by the fact that part of the land had been submerged. The city also contended that even if it had acquired the land for the purpose of obtaining stone, it was acting well within its rights under a long line of decisions.

Judge Hasbrouck denies the application for the injunction, and in his opinion says:

The action of the above named taxpayer is based upon two claims. First, that the City of New York has failed to obtain the approval of the State Board of Water Supply or its successor to the maps describing the lands to be acquired under Chapter 724 of the Laws of 1905 for reservoir purposes. Under a similar case in Re the Application and Petition of the Board of Water Supply, etc., to acquire a perpetual underground easement, etc., Arletta street, etc., the Appellate Division of the Second Department has held as follows:

"The City Water Supply Act had a final clause that, before such taking, the maps and plans covering the work contemplated by this act, should be approved by the State Water Supply Commission. (Laws 1905, Chapter 724, Section 46.) Plainly this local act did not thereby add to the requirements for such applications to the State Commission already laid down in the preceding chapter. The maps and plans covering the work meant the exhibit of maps and profiles already prescribed by Section 3 of the State Water Commission Act."

"When the City Board of Water Supply have had these maps adopted by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, they are to transmit them so certified to the Corporation Counsel, who then is to give the usual notice (Sec. 7) and to make application for the appointment of Commissioners of Appraisal. This excludes any idea that after the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has acted, these acquisition maps are to be further submitted to the State Commission. Such submission of condemnation maps to the State Water Commission had not been had in the course of official procedure hitherto in the many condemnations taken under this act. Practical official construction and statutory interpretation are therefore in accord with considerations of practical efficiency, in the conclusion that such submission is not required after the general plan, maps and profiles have been approved by the State Water Commission."

152 N. Y. Supp. 1038.

It would be unseemly for this court not to follow the precedent thus established. The second claim is that there is no necessity for the acquisition on the part of the City of New York of the lands known as the Yale Quarry. What the needs of the people may be rests for determination by the Legislature in the exercise of the right of eminent domain. Where such power is committed to municipalities they in turn are put under responsibility of determining the extent of the domain required for public use. The acquiring state or municipality or agency employed by either constitute the sole judges of the necessity. This legislative power the court may not invade unless its exercise is abused with fraud or the power has been plainly and grossly abused. Motion for a temporary injunction denied with costs.

Major R. Dulany Whiting of New York city appeared for Mr. Mulligan and the application, Thomas Gilman of New York city appeared for Mr. Buck, the owner, William McMillan appeared for the city of New York in opposition to the application.

MT. TREMPER.

Mr. Temper, May 28.—The Rev. R. P. Ingersoll and family have returned to their cottage here, after spending a few days at Rhinebeck. They made the trip by auto.

Edgar Bolten has nearly completed the new cottage he is building for Mr. Mann of Rhinebeck. It presents a very nice appearance. The family expect to occupy it by June 1.

Mrs. Rowe and family of New York, who occupied the Hill Crest Bungalow, have rented it again this season, and will soon take possession.

M. Steinberg is at H. Spencer's boarding house, that he has rented and has it opened for the season.

Mrs. Eichler has moved into the house they recently bought at Mt. Pleasant of M. Every.

There was service both in the afternoon and evening at the Reformed Church Sunday and there was a large attendance at both meetings. Mrs. Huddler entertained the L. O. G. Gulick at tea Sunday evening.

Miss Ruth DeVall, who has been standing the winter in New York, will spend over Decoration Day at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Woodford, Mr. and Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. Gage all of Newark, N. J., are spending a few days at W. A. Sylvester's. Lemuel Davenport of Washington, P. C., is visiting his aunt, Mrs. John Gardner. Mrs. Maloy of New York is also visiting her sister, Mrs. Gardner.

FIERCE FIGHTING ON GALLIPOLI

[illegible]

Photograph to The Freeman.
Athens, May 28.—The fiercest fighting of the allies' land campaign against the Turks at the Dardanelles is now in progress on Gallipoli peninsula, according to a dispatch from Tenedos.

The British and French troops, heavily reinforced, are advancing from Krithia, Gaba Tepah and Bulair, capturing successive lines of the Turkish trenches. The Turks are obstinately resisting the advance.

British and French warships are bombarding the Turkish positions from the Gulf of Saros and from the entrance to the Dardanelles.

WALLKILL.
Wallkill, May 23.—The "Willing Workers" will hold their annual church festival on the church lawn Wednesday evening, June 9. Good band music. Well known supper, ice cream, etc. If stormy, the next fair evening. The enjoyment of the Wallkill festivals is well known. Nobody should miss it.
Saturday at 2 o'clock the bids for the new bridge will be opened.

Dr. Owen Van Kleeck was a visitor in town this week. Dr. Van Kleeck will come to Wallkill next week and will have charge of Dr. Bowman's practice during June and part of July, while Dr. and Mrs. Bowman are in California.

It is stated that Joseph Sherry of Hutton Hill has rented the Mutterer residence on Main street and will conduct a summer boarding house.

The Y. M. C. A. baseball team of Valden will play the Crescent A. C. on Saturday at the park grounds. Game called at 3:30. The Crescents expect to play at Mohonk Decoration day.

The Woman's Club will hold their next meeting for the club year at the home of Mrs. Frank Schoonmaker on Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. J. M. Bowman will be the leader. Subject: "The Education of the Modern Magazine."

Walkhill is looking forward to a state road in our village. Auto parties will be still more plentiful when we have our beautiful new bridge and state roads leading to and from Shawangunk is one of the towns that has never been favored with a state road.

Mrs. Margaret Galloway was a recent visitor to Poughkeepsie, where she visited Miss Edith Smith at Vassar College.

Mrs. Morris Masten and Miss Ella Finney are in attendance at the Christian Endeavor convention at Kingston.

Henry Jenkins met with what might have been a serious accident as he was nearing Paterson last week. When coming to the city limits he slowed up speed but the man following him did not and as a result Mr. Jenkins's car was badly damaged. Jenkins intends going to California with the Wallkill party.

Frank Gerow and son, George, of M. W. Palitz are visiting Mr. Gerow's mother, Mrs. M. W. Palitz, here this week.

Our freshmen will attend the parade tomorrow.

Greaves, Mgr.

If we could meet face to face every woman in Kingston and tell her just why she should buy her Hat here; explain every detail of the making and materials, and post her on the latest ideas and newest creations that are so beautifully displayed at "The Paris," we are certain that she would become a permanent patron of ours.

In attempting to explain the marvels of beauty that go to make up our showing of Midsummer Hats, no pen picture is adequate to convey to femininity's mind the beauty, richness and charm they possess.

Here are entrancingly lovely Sport Hats and Dress Hats—Hats for wear with talleur costumes, for garden parties, for the hotel piazza, for summer sports, for the June bride or bridesmaid, for the girl graduate and for the woman who wants to look her very best on Decoration Day—a great and beautiful variety.

There can be no better Hats than the BEST. Our Hats are undoubtedly BEST, and our prices are always THE LOWEST IN KINGSTON. The best way is to see our new Hats in their brilliant display now. There's a spice of novelty and smartness in every single Hat—the crispness which shows them to be the cleverest work of the most original American and Parisian designers, copied by our own skillful milliners.

FEDERATION WEEK AND TAG DAY

Beginning Monday, Federation week, closing with Tag Day next Saturday, will be observed for the purpose of raising, it is earnestly hoped, at least $1,500 for the coming year's philanthropic work of the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs. It must be remembered by all who are asked to contribute—and so far as possible that will be every resident in the city—that not one cent of all the large sum of money contributed for relief last winter, and managed by the Federation's social worker, Mrs. MacMillan, went into the treasury of the Federation. They, too, did a most unusual amount of relief work, and in addition, alone bore the financial responsibility of Mrs. MacMillan's salary, while she was doing all of the tremendously heavy philanthropic work of last season. Now the Federation needs the above mentioned sum, if it is to continue having Mrs. MacMillan as its social worker, and in addition to carry forward all of the other activities which it has so successfully operated for the good of the community. This money is therefore, not asked for the good of the Federation, but for the good of the community, which will be served, especially its less favored members, by the Federation.

There was a most enthusiastic meeting of the chairman of Federation Week and Tag Day, held at the home of the head chairman, Mrs. Henry Van Hovenberg yesterday afternoon. Through the generosity of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad, trolley car tickets were received for the necessary use of the workers, and arm badges, chairman badges, boxes, tags, etc., were given out. The following women will act as chairmen of their respective wards:

Dr. Mary Gage-Day, First Ward.

DANGERS OF FLATTERY.

In order that all men may be taught to speak truth it is necessary that all should learn to hear it, for no species of falsehood is more frequent than flattery, to which the coward is betrayed by fear, the dependent by interest, the friend by tenderness. Those neither servile nor timorous are yet desirous to bestow pleasure, and while unjust demands of praise continue to be made there will always be some whom hope, fear or kindness will dispose to pay them.—Johnson.

Clear Waste.

"He has a quick temper, you know," was the excuse given by a friend for a boy's rude act.
 "Is he quick at his lessons?" was the question.
 "No," was the reply.
 "Is he quick at sports?" the questioner went on.
 Again the answer was "No."
 "Is he quick in obedience?"
 "No."
 "Well," said the questioner, with a twinkle in his eye. "If he has so little quickness he'd better use it where it will do him some good. It's just clear waste to put it on his temper."—Exchange.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, May 28.—Hey, fellows. Jawn McGraw has took his pen in hand again and has taken to writing articles about cream-puffs, the giants, Ban Johnson and the condition of his mental and physical self. "I am good and sore" remarked John, right at the commencement of his article. That's the commencement of his article. That's the commencement of his article.

What's Jawn "good and sore" at? Oh, many, many things, including Ban Johnson. However, the fact that Jawn is sore on Ban is not news. Jawn has been sore at Ban for such a long time that even the oldest inhabitant can't recollect the date when the soreness first affected Jawn.

Jawn says that one of the specific reasons for his present general soreness is the Kauff case. Of course, there are other reasons to be explained later—but the Kauff case is the wound that causes Jawn the greatest agony.

Jawn insists that Kauff wasn't under legal contract when he snared the Federal League kangaroo, and Jawn feels just dreadfully angry because the National Comish charged Kauff back to the wilds of Brooklyn after Jawn had rescued him.

Jawn asserts, vehemently, that if Kauff had jumped to the American League there would have been a different finish for the Kauff case.

Jawn is heart-broken over the fact that baseball has degenerated into what he calls "a cream puff, charlotte russe affair." Not that Jawn doesn't like cream puffs and charlotte Russes. That isn't the reason, the real reason is that Jawn doesn't like to have cream puffs, or cotera mixed up with baseballs. Jawn probably fears that such a mixture might ruin his digestion, and, you know, it's pretty tough on a fellow who is eating at some one else's expense to have an impaired digestion.

GRADUATION DAY GIFTS.

Books, cards, fancy booklets, fountain pens, nibby box paper and other novelties.

O'REILLY'S 530 Broadway.

After exhausting himself on the baseball war and Benny Kauff features, Jawn gets right into the heart of things by remarking that there are a couple of other clubs in the National League pennant fight besides the Giants.

After making that statement, Jawn says: "Laugh at these three words (besides the Giants) if you wish."

Probably there are some folk—in Bawston, Fillydellya and elsewhere—who wish to laugh at those three words. That being the case we will halt operations for one minute to permit them to laugh.

(All readers are asked at this point to pause for one minute.)

Now, fellows, having paused to allow for laughter, we will proceed:

"A manager," says Jawn, "cannot get a team into first place with such pitching as I've had."

If Rubie Marquard, who pitched a no-hit game about four weeks ago, reads what Jawn wrote, it's likely that Rubie's temperment may get the better of him and he'll rush up and snite Jawn on his frontispiece.

Jawn concedes the Cubs and the Braves a chance for world series honors. As for the Phillies—pooh, pooh.

"I," said Jawn, "Have existed on this earth for a sufficient length of time to have seen quite a number of Philadelphia clubs win a pennant in April and May."

Jawn did not say anything about having seen a Philadelphia club give his outfit quite a number of beatings in recent world series battles. Probably Jawn figured that such things belong to a dead and embalmed past.

Shifting again to the subject of baseball war, Jawn says:

"This baseball war is being fought with lawyers, injunctions and fountain pens."

In conclusion, Jawn brings in a thrilling climax by saying:

"I wish this baseball war were being fought barehanded."

Well, Jawn, if it were, where would you be?
